Marquette, Mich., May 31.—George A. Newell went on the witness stand this afternoon and retracted the alleged libel charging Roosevelt with drunkenness. He said he had been done the Colonel in the publication of the article and deeply regretted it. The plaintiff then in person, asked the judge to instruct the jury to bring in merely nominal damages.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Marquette, Mich., May 31.—Col. Roosevelt's statement to the court was as follows:
"Your honor, in view of the statement of the defendant, I ask the court to instruct the jury that I desire only nominal damages. I did not go into this case for money. I did not go into it for any vindictive purpose. I went into it, and as the court said, I made my reputation the issue, because I wished once for all during my lifetime, thoroughly and comprehensively to deal with these slanders, so that never again, if it is possible, for any man is good faith to repeat them. I have achieved my purpose and am content."
Nominal damages means six cents under the laws of Michigan and no cents.
Colonel Roosevelt will leave here tonight.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Marquette, Mich., May 31.—Emelene Roosevelt, first cousin of Theodore Roosevelt, who is probably more familiar with the life of the former president than any other of the witnesses in the Roosevelt-Newell libel suit being tried here, testified today to the abstinence of the plaintiff, Mr. Roosevelt, preceded on the stand by Joseph E. Bayless of Ste. Marie, Mich., who identified the alleged libelous article in the Ishpeming Iron Ore as one he had read. This affirmation was practically all that was required of him and it was introduced to show that the allegations of drunkenness against Colonel Roosevelt were in general circulation.
Emelene Roosevelt said he was 50 years of age and said that his father and the father of the plaintiff, who were brothers, had been closely associated in business.
The examination was very brief. It was announced that an afternoon session of court would be held.
The witness said: "My associations with the defendant have been very intimate. I have been with him for two weeks at a time. When we were boys, we lived near each other. Later I was with him on hunting trips. I was with him both times when he was sworn in as President, at Buffalo on the death of President McKinley. I made trips with him in the Mayflower, the government boat placed at his service. I have been in a position to know every detail in his public and private life."

The witness said Roosevelt was not a "drinking" man and that he had never seen him under the influence of liquor, nor heard him use profanity.
William Loeb, Jr., collector of customs, New York, testified he first met Colonel Roosevelt when the latter became governor of New York. During the seven and one-half years of the Roosevelt administration Mr. Loeb said he was associated with the President first as assistant to him and later as his secretary. Mr. Loeb said he saw Colonel Roosevelt as President every day, including the holidays.

BULLET FIRED INTO TRAIN.

A note to his wife, Mrs. Albertina Rice, in which he declared himself a nervous wreck and papers outlining the disposition he wished made of $100,000 worth of property, were found in his pocket.

Little Tots Shed Tears As
Mr. and Mrs. Krieg Leave
County Children's Home

After a service of twelve years as superintendent of the Licking County Children's Home, J. C. Krieg has passed the position on to Harvey Orr, his recently chosen successor.
Friday was a sad day at the children's home. Sixty little inmates were inconsolable. Many of them shed tears and sobbed as they said good-bye to Mr. and Mrs. Krieg, who had been daddy and mamma to them all for so long a time. The departing custodians of the home were as loath to part with their youthful charges, whom they had come to regard almost as their own big, happy family. Both the retiring superintendent and the matron wept as they kissed a wee, up-turned face, patted a little head or squeezed a tiny hand in parting. As they left the home they stood the group of children who had sought their care and protection, waving a sad good-bye.
And as Mr. and Mrs. Krieg left the sad-eyed congregation behind them, they felt as perhaps never before, the depth of the tie that had sprung up between their little charges and themselves in the dozen years of association.

Jules Goux first won fame as a race driver in France, where he was victor in a 402-mile race. Before coming to this country he went to the Brooklands track in England, where he made 106 miles and 307 yards in 60 minutes in the same car in which he raced yesterday. His record in the 402-mile race broke all European records for the distance, while his performance at Brooklands track broke all world records.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 31.—The United States left before France here Friday when Jules Goux, a Frenchman, driving a French car, the Peugeot, won the third annual 500-mile automobile race at the Speedway in 6:31:33.45, at an average speed of 76.59 miles an hour.

No fatal accidents marred the running of the race, although two were seriously injured when the Mason, driven by Jack Tower, upset on the back turn, due to a tire blow-out. Tower's right leg was broken and Lee Dunning, his mechanic, received three broken ribs and internal injuries. The physicians at the Methodist hospital, where the two men were taken after the race, were not sure as to the extent of Dunning's injuries tonight.

Charles Merz, who finished third in a Stutz, brought the biggest thrill to the crowd, estimated at 100,000, when he drove the last lap of the race with his car on fire. The flames broke out in the upper stretch turn, and Merz refused to stop at the pits until he had circled the track another time and finished the race. Coming down to the home stretch in the finish, Harry Martin, Merz's mechanic, climbed out on the (Continued on Page 3, Col. 2.)

ROPE STOLEN FROM FLAG POLE

The theft of a piece of rope disarranged the plans of the G. A. R. members on Memorial Day. It was noted by many who visited the Cedar Hill cemetery on that day that the flag was missing from the staff in the G. A. R. lot. Well, this was not an oversight, but rather the result of circumstances. When all was ready to hoist the flag it was discovered that the rope had been removed from the pulleys and it was impossible to place the flag.

MORE GYPSIES ARE ORDERED TO LEAVE THE CITY

Another band of Gypsies was reported to the police department Friday morning as conducting themselves as a menace and a nuisance in East Newark. Patrolman Donnelly was dispatched to investigate and ordered the nomads to immediately leave the city.
Several calls from the proximities of their visits also brought humane officer Harris into contact with them. The women had left their children alone and unprotected in their wagons and their crying soon became an annoyance to that section of the city.
This band contained four wagon loads of the nomads and they said they were migrating westward. Their begging and solicitations to tell fortunes soon became a matter of suspicion and they were ordered to proceed as were those present in this city last Thursday.
Another band of three wagons was reported and brought to headquarters by Patrolman Hurlbaugh. Officer Donnelly then accompanied them to the city limits.

Monument to the Martyrs Who Went Down With the Warship Maine

GROUP AT REAR OF BASE. ATTILIO PICCHIELLI, SCULPTOR. TOP OF MONUMENT.
The martyrs of the Maine have at last been fittingly honored. After fifteen years and three months a monument to mark their heroism has been unveiled in New York. The monument, at the southwest entrance to Central Park, will be one of the most imposing in the city. In order to make the occasion worthy of the men who went down on an imposing program of ceremonies was arranged. The chief figure called to the scene was Admiral Sigsbee the commander of the Maine. With him was the Rev. Father John P. Chadwick, chaplain of the warship.
This is the inscription over the monument:
"To the Freemen Who Died in the War With Spain That Others Might Be Free."
The pylon is crowned by a group representing Columbia Triumphant, drawn in a sea car by three plunging horses. This group is in bronze, cast from guns recovered from the sunken Maine and is heavily gilded. The group is seventeen feet high, making the monument fifty-seven feet in height.
All the other sculpture is of Knoxville marble. In panels on the lateral faces of the shaft are inscribed the names of those to whom the monument is dedicated.
At either side of the pylon, and separated from it by two Park roads, are two entrances formed by four garden houses of the type familiar in the great parks abroad. Each pair of houses constitutes a gateway. There will be one of these gates on either side of the footpaths and partially connected by a low wall of the height of the present Park wall, and with seats facing the circle.
The material used for the pylon, the houses, and the wall is of Tennessee marble, with a granite base of similar tone.

COLOVAN CRUSHED
UNDER BIPLANE

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Chicago, May 31.—Aviation claimed another victim today when James Colovan, a young amateur flyer, was killed by the overturning of his biplane. The accident occurred just outside the flying field of the Aero club of Illinois. Colovan's machine caught in the branches of a tree as he was attempting to execute a turn. He was crushed under the engine.

BOY BANDITS
ROB CLUB MEN

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
New York, May 31.—Three boys under 17 years of age are under arrest as bandits, who, with pistols in hand, invaded the Trojan Athletic club up town last night and lined up fifteen young men for robbery. Several of the victims who refused to hold up their hands were punched in the face. Pistols kept them from punching back. In all the young bandits got nearly $300 worth of jewelry and money. They had barely backed out of the club rooms to dart away when an alarm was sounded and the police put on their trail.

Columbus, May 31.—Approximately 600 Ohio survivors of the battle of Gettysburg have made application to Adjutant General Wood for free state transportation to the reunion of veterans which will be held at Gettysburg on the first three days of July.
Fears were expressed by state officials today that the appropriation of $12,000 made for the survivors by the legislature will not be sufficient. The $12,000 appropriation was based on 400 instead of 600 survivors.

Wife Charges That He Threatened Her With Razor as a Result Asks Divorce.
Because his wife made coffee too weak, Wilber O. Miller started trouble, and as a result he threatened to kill her with a razor and she sat up in her night clothes all one night to be prepared for him. At least, such are the allegations of Melissa J. Miller, as recited in a divorce petition filed for in probate court Saturday by Attorney S. L. James.
According to the petition Miller works for the American Bottle company. His wife charges him with repeated assaults, and says he told her if she got a divorce and he saw her on the street with any other man he would shoot her.
She seeks a temporary injunction to hold his money pending action on her petition for divorce, alimony and restoration of her maiden name, Moran.

CLUB MAN HELD
FOR SHOOTING GIRL

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Los Angeles, Cal., May 31.—Fred E. Kolb, a wealthy young clubman, was arrested last night charged with having shot Miss Irene Noble, 22 years old. George R. Noble, the girl's brother, according to his statement to the police, found her lying on the floor of his residence last night unconscious with Kolb at the telephone summoning a physician.
When she was revived at the hospital Miss Noble charged Kolb with having fired the shot. Miss Noble was probably fatally wounded.
A letter in her handwriting addressed to her mother threatening suicide, was said by the police to have been found in her clothing. Kolb is the son of the late C. C. Kolb, millionaire manufacturer and inherited a large portion of his father's estate.

WILD RIDE OF ELOPING COUPLE

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Philadelphia, May 31.—A romantic story was brought here today of the elopement from Boston of a Chicago youth and a young Boston girl, of the failure of the pair to induce a clergyman to marry them in Boston or New York, of how they "hiked" to Philadelphia over muddy roads, and how they took an automobile in the city streets, dashed along the Lancaster pike, flashing past toll gates without paying tolls, finally landing in the hands of a constable in the Blue mountains 200 miles west of Philadelphia.
The young man who gave his name as Lloyd Williams when arrested at Lawistown, Pa., in company with Edythe M. Howe, is said by the police to be Earl W. Scott, who is wanted at Malden, Mass., for taking automobiles left standing on the streets.
The girl, who is about 16 years old, is the daughter of Lewis R. Howe, a Malden railroad freight solicitor.

BIG RETURNS
ON $700 LOAN

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Wellston, O., May 31.—In the eighties, Dr. E. S. Higley lent Chas. Froelich, a struggling farmer, $700 with which to complete his education. Years rolled on and nothing was heard of the young man.
Eight years ago, when Froelich, who had grown wealthy in Australia, was in this country, he hunted up his benefactor and repaid the amount with compound interest.
Relatives of Dr. Higley now have been informed that Froelich recently died without heirs and had left his entire fortune of nearly $1,000,000 to Higley.

Gallion, O., May 31.—David Lynch, a farmer living near here, has a ram which in addition to a fine coat of wool, has a covering of flourishing green oats.
The ram wallowed around in a straw stack and got oats in its wool. Then it was rained on. Next the sun shone brightly. This continued several days with the result that the oats sprouted.
Lynch calculates that in case of drouth he can save this crop of oats, since if the rain went come to it, he can move into the rain.

NO SURPLUS SINCE 1883

Burleson's Report Says Unjustifiable Methods of Accounting Were Used to Make the Showing.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Washington, May 31.—Postmaster General Burleson today made public the report of a special investigation into fiscal affairs of the postal service charging that during former Postmaster General Hitchcock's administration the service did not become self-supporting as often was asserted, but in 1911 there actually was a deficiency of more than $750,000.

The report charges that "an apparent surplus was attained by unjustifiable methods of bookkeeping" and that the efficiency and morale of the postal service was sacrificed to "ruthlessly enforced policy of false economy" that a showing of self maintenance might be made. The report attributes to that alleged condition, complaints against the service.

Mr. Hitchcock during his administration in reports, claimed that in the year 1909 a deficiency of approximately $17,500,000 had entirely been eliminated and that in the fiscal year 1911 a surplus of more than $200,000 was attained. The report of the "survey" made at the direction of Mr. Burleson says that at no time has there been a legitimate surplus in postal revenues since 1883 and that the postoffice department under Mr. Hitchcock's administration in 1910 and 1911 actually was under a deficit of more than $750,000. In that connection the report says:

"It is pointed out by the committee that the published financial reports of the department stated that the revenues and the cost of the service are dissimilar, and the finance comparable basis. Revenues of the postal service are almost entirely collected in cash, and consequently relate properly to the fiscal year for which the report is made. But the committee finds it has been the practice to report these only with payments actually made during the fiscal year regardless of obligations incurred in that year, but not to be paid until succeeding years."

Just before President Wilson took office the report says, Mr. Hitchcock filled long standing vacancies made postponed promotions and assumed commitments to fixed charges for long terms in such a way as to "saddle the administration with greatly increased expense during months, if not years to come. More than one hundred mail rural routes were made in three days." The fiscal statement of the postal service for 1912 purported to show a deficit of $1,785,523, but that sum, the investigators say, was understated by nearly $100,000.

Delay of promotions and filling of vacancies that lapsed, salaries might be returned to the treasury, the report says caused dissatisfaction among employees, and lowered the standard of their efficiency. Employees were transferred from other departments to the postal service it is charged, at salaries in excess of the "entrance grade" and many certifications to the postal service commission that such positions could not be filled by promotion "were unjustified."
Daniel C. Roper, Jos. Stewart, A. M. Dockery, James I. Blakeslee and four assistant postmasters general and Merritt O. Chance, chief clerk of the department, made the survey, and signed the report.

The New Civic Force

(By Chalmers L. Hancock.)
The energy and enthusiasm of the men forming the new partisan boosting clubs throughout the country is a striking example of the broadness of American development. These young "city builders" are usually men just starting out in life, men who still have their careers to make, men full of ginger, of ambition and action.
They are men who have caught the step of modern America. They are reading, studying and discussing all the phases of city building. Such are the young men who will change the characters of cities and the maps of states. They are bringing to bear, in city building, those broad ideas which are making for progress and development the country over.
These young men want to be up and doing. They believe in BOOSTING, the kind that will transform cities, that will build up larger and better cities.

RIDER HELD BLAMELESS FOR THE COLLISION

John Amicon, riding a motorcycle, collided with a man giving his name as Wilson on the south side of the square, Friday afternoon. Amicon was ordered to report to the mayor's court Saturday morning and upon Wilson's pleading guilty to the charge of being drunk Amicon was dismissed. Amicon stated that he was turning around and that Wilson persisted in getting in front of him and that to avoid running over him he shoved him over with his hand.

Seven plain drinks and one charged with drunk and fighting were given the usual five and costs. Three of these paid their fines and with the fine and costs being suspended another consented to immediately get out of town. The others were sent to the county jail.

Two Japanese Officials Now in California Studying Alien Land Question

A. Hattori and S. Ebara, the two Japanese officials who have just arrived in California ostensibly to study the alien land question to their own satisfaction have aroused much interest in the Pacific coast state. Hattori is a former member of parliament, while Ebara is now a senator.

Hattori is well versed in American ways, having been a student at Princeton University at the time President Wilson was in charge of that institution. He will go to Washington to meet the President before returning to Japan. Ebara, who is seventy-two years old, was the first president of the Japanese Peace Society.

"I hope my visit will lead to a better understanding between my countrymen and the Americans," said he.

While the purpose of the visit of the two Japanese is accepted generally in California at face value, there is a suspicion on the part of some persons there that the Japs may be seeking more information.

Nature Forgot The Usual Rain For Decoration Day; Many Hear Rev. Blodgett

For the first time in the history of many years Memorial Day in Newark was observed Friday without the slightest interference by the weather. While the afternoon sky contained threatening clouds, there was no rainfall, but a cool breeze tended to offset the effects of seasonable heat from the prevailing sunshine.

The double attraction offered by the holiday drew thousands out upon the streets in motor cars and other conveyances, while city and interurban trolley lines did a big business all day, carrying crowds to and from Cedar Hill cemetery, and to the parks for picnics and rest. Buckeye Lake park drew big crowds from all directions. Service on the Ohio Electric line was barely adequate to accommodate the throng bound for the resort in the afternoon and returning to Newark the night cars were taxed.

The Memorial Day program passed off without a hitch, from the parade in the forenoon to the indoor exercises in the afternoon in Memorial auditorium. Crowds which blocked the streets around the public square and along the line of march followed by the soldiers and patriotic societies in the morning, held their positions until arrival of the Gentry Brothers circus parade at 11:30 and then quickly dispersed until after noon.

Memorial hall was filled with a big audience in the afternoon to listen to the program, which was observed according to the earlier announcement of the veterans' committee. The feature was of course the address of Commander C. W. Blodgett of the department of Ohio, G. A. R. The speaker, who is a Cincinnati clergyman, displayed a style of oratory that held his audience in rapt attention from his introduction to his conclusion. In a modest way he recited briefly the accomplishments of this nation in wars, and lauded the efforts being put forth for international peace. He spoke in commendation of the heroes who fought and died in the Civil war, citing them as examples of the highest type of citizenship—that which values country above life.

Martial music by the veterans' life and drum corps, accompanied by the impressive presence of the brightly uniformed survivors of the Civil war sitting shoulder to shoulder with the younger generation of fighters under the stars and stripes, stirred the gathering to a patriotic ardor that found expression in enthusiastic cheers for each feature of the program.

Superintendent Wilson Hawkins of the Newark Public schools gave an excellent reading of the celebrated Gettysburg address of President Lincoln and Mrs. J. C. Bonshire won the approval of the audience with her rendition of "The Faded Coat of Blue."

One of the most inspiring features of the program was the drill of the Old Guard, in which the veterans executed a number of difficult figures with precise skill.

While enthusiastic with patriotic spirit, the gathering in the Auditorium appeared to realize fully the import of the meeting, not forgetting that it was one of a solemn memorial character. The program was begun by the entire gathering singing America, after which invocation was said by Rev. L. C. Sparks, pastor of the First Methodist church.

A quartet gave several pleasing numbers, and the sounding of "taps" marked the conclusion of the program.

OVER HALF OF O. N. G. OFFICERS FAIL IN TEST

(Associated Press Telegram)
Columbus, O., May 31.—Sixty per cent of the officers of the Ohio National Guard who took examinations this week for higher rank, failed in their examinations, according to an announcement made by the Adjutant General's office today. Another examination will be held for the officers who failed on June 25. About 20 officers took the test.

hood of the car and unbuckled the straps so the pitmen could extinguish the flames immediately.

Four of the eight foreign cars which had entered finished in the prizes, the other four being forced out by broken parts.

An American car, a Mercer, driven by Spencer Wishart, finished second, seven laps behind the winner. The Sunbeam, an English car, driven by a Frenchman, Albert Guyot, came in fourth. The other foreign cars in the money were Pilette's Mercedes-Knight (German), which was fifth, and Mulford's Mercedes (German), seventh. The race was a little more than to minutes slower than last year's contest, which was run in 6:21:06. This was due, it was said, in a large measure to the intense heat, which necessitated many changes of tires. Another thing which caused a slower time was the fact that this year the piston displacement was limited to 4.5

DR. SPARKS WILL DISCUSS SPECIAL THEME SUNDAY

Following the Memorial Day services, Dr. Sparks at the First M. E. church Sunday morning will have for his theme, "The Republic and Christianity," in which he will discuss the necessity of the maintenance of Christian ideals in our legislative, commercial, educational and social life in order to the perpetuity of the Republic. This is a great subject and will doubtless command a wide hearing.

NEEDLE ENTERS BONE OF LEG

Year Old Child of Edward Simpson Submits to Operation to Remove Bit of Steel.

The year old child of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Simpson of Black Hand, had a needle cut out of its leg on Friday morning which had become imbedded while the child was playing.

The baby had been playing about the Simpson home, and Mrs. Simpson who had been doing some sewing had just dropped the material on the floor. It contained a needle, and the child in falling against the chair where the mother had been sitting, ran the needle in its left leg. The bit of steel penetrated the tender flesh and became imbedded in the bone.

The baby was brought to the office of Dr. Harry Postle in East Church street, where Dr. C. F. Legge administered the anaesthetic and Dr. Postle removed the needle.

his working hours from 9 a. m. until midnight," said the witness.

"To what extent did he indulge in intoxicants?"

"He was as temperate as any man I ever saw."

The attorney for the plaintiff next directed attention to the reception given by Speaker Cannon on the occasion of his 70th birthday.

"Did you go with the President to this reception?" asked the lawyer.

"The President, myself and Mr. Sloan, the secret service man, left the White House to go to the dinner at 9 o'clock. I also came home with him."

"What was his condition as to sobriety?" asked Attorney Pound.

"Sober."

"Did you see him take a drink during the hour he was there?"

"I saw him go with the speaker and drink a glass of champagne."

"Yes, one."

Leaving the reception and going to the White House will you tell the jury whether he was under the influence of liquor?"

"Absolutely not."

The witness cross-examined by Attorney Horace Andrews said he was kept busy at the White House and had 20 stenographers in his charge. He was excused after a brief examination.

There was no diminution of interest in the case and the court room was filled when the case was resumed. The afternoon session was determined upon in an effort to complete if possible the plaintiff's evidence. The examinations were more brief and speedy than heretofore.

Frank Tyne, United States marshal of the southern district of West Virginia, who was in the secret service during the Roosevelt administration, and who was detailed to accompany the President on various trips, was a witness. His testimony was along the lines of others who gave the former President credit for abstemiousness.

Almost all of Colonel Theodore Roosevelt's witnesses in his suit for libel against George A. Newell, the (spelling) newspaper owner, who published an editorial accusing the former President of getting drunk, and "that not infrequently," were expected to complete their testimony today.

It was announced by James H. Pound, chief counsel for Col. Roosevelt, that after the testimony of the plaintiff's witnesses numerous depositions on behalf of the Colonel will be offered as tending to show that Colonel Roosevelt used intoxicants only moderately. It may be two or three days into next week before the case is turned over to the defense. It was stated in court that the defense will also offer several scores of depositions, many from people residing in Ohio.

That something of the sort might happen apparently was foreshadowed when Judge Flanagan, warned newspaper men who had obtained copies of certain depositions in advance that they must not be used until they had been fully read in court. An attaché of the court admitted that the rumor had basis in fact, but would make no further statement. It is said that the defense has been embarrassed in getting witnesses on whom it relied.

The presentation of testimony for the plaintiff was concluded at 2:50 o'clock this afternoon and the defendant, Newell, took the stand. Rumors in the court had it that he would be the only witness for the defense.

It was said that a great many depositions that had been gathered by both sides would not be introduced.

AMUSEMENTS

At the Auditorium Sunday.
The Auditorium offers a splendid program Sunday and one which should attract capacity houses. The big feature will be "In the Secret Service," a two reel 101 Bison picture produced by H. McKee. It tells a civil war story of much interest. Gen. Gordon of the federal army, receives a message from General Grant telling him to intercept important dispatches from "Close to Webber," carried "over wires" in Gordon's vicinity. Lieut. Barrett assumes the task; takes his instruments and sets out. Col. Webber of the confederates has a daughter Edith. Lieut. Fairfax aspires to her hand but his attentions only annoy her. Barrett taps the wires, is seen by a confederate officer and shot. The officer creeps up to him, thinking him dead, when Barrett suddenly shoots, kills him and takes his uniform. This forms the plot of a great war story. Jackson's orchestra will furnish a specially selected repertoire of music for the entertainment Sunday and the performance will run from 1:30 to 10:30 continuous and the prices of admission are 5 cents in the balcony and 10 cents down stairs.

Boasts of The Jungle.
A photoplay of great interest and exciting enough to please the multitude is "Beasts of the Jungle," a 3 reel feature picture that will be seen at the Auditorium next Tuesday afternoon and evening. The story told is one that holds the attention of the auditor from start to finish and the climaxes are sensational and startling to the extreme. The prices of admission for this feature will be 5 cents for children and 10 cents for adults. It will be given in addition to the usual program.

GOVERNOR COX'S STAND FOR GOOD ROADS IMPROVEMENT

In the course of an address which he delivered to the delegates to the Rural Life and Good Roads Congress last March, Governor Cox spoke of the $1,000,000, 000 that have been expended each year for the improvement of waterways and harbors and to construct public buildings, and then he said to the ruralites: "You farmers helped to pay for all that, and now it is time that the city chaps be required to pay for improvements in the country."

That promise has been carried out, and today arrangements are being made for the expenditure of $3,500,000 under the Hite good roads law for the improvement of main market roads and inter-county highways. The rural roads are to receive more attention in the next twelve months than was given them in the previous 10 years.

In the expenditure of this $3,500,000 no favorites will be played. The wealthy county will not be given an advantage over a less fortunate county, and the large county will stand on an equal footing with the smaller.

Here is the plan to be followed: One fourth of the $3,500,000 or about $900,000 will be expended on the main market roads direct from the office of the state highway commissioner. There are no conditions or strings attached to this money.

It will be divided into 88 equal parts and distributed among the 88 counties of the commonwealth, each county getting an equal amount. An amount equal to that to be received must be put up by each county, but if any county is unable to pay its portion, the amount allotted to it will be given after the expiration of a certain period. Formerly, such allowances were forfeited by the delinquent counties.

Now that an Illinois woman has asked Mrs. Wilson for some of her daughters' cast off clothes, there are probably several people who have their eyes on the President's inauguration suit.

NATIONAL FLOOD PREVENTION AND RIVER REGULATION

The great national flood prevention and river regulation campaign being conducted by the National Reclamation Association, with headquarters at New Orleans, is designed not only to protect the flood menaced sections of the Ohio, the Missouri, the Mississippi and other river valleys of the country from inundation, but, by regulating the flow of the streams, to make the navigable rivers navigable the year round.

The medium approved and endorsed by the National Reclamation Association is the Newlands River Regulation Bill now pending in Congress, which creates a federal Board of River Regulation, made up of the chiefs of the several governmental departments now engaged in work on the rivers, and three engineers to be selected by the President because of special qualifications. The bill gives the board authority to conserve the waters of the source streams through forestation, soil porosity, impounding reservoirs, etc., to open channels where needed, to build and maintain levees and revetments where necessary to create controlled outlets, protected spillways and flood relief channels, and empowers the board to adopt comprehensive plans, and then to go ahead and do such work as may be necessary to make the rivers navigable all the year round and to safeguard the cities, the towns and the lands from floods and from the menace of floods.

The Newlands bill has been endorsed by several state Legislatures, by the Pittsburg Chamber of Commerce, the Pittsburg Flood Commission, the State bankers Association of Louisiana, Texas and Mississippi, by Governor Cox of Ohio, Gov. Hall of Louisiana, and by many other prominent men and important organizations.

On May 27, Mr. R. H. Downman, of New Orleans, acting as the special messenger of Gov. Hall of Louisiana, presented the Flood Prevention Resolutions adopted by the people of New Orleans in Mass Meeting on May 15 to President Wilson.

The National Reclamation Association and its allied organizations will endeavor to secure the passage of the Newlands River Regulation Bill at the present Session of Congress.

Uncle Walt's Philosophy

GRAPE JUICE.

All honor to the peerless Bryan, who, custom's absolute deity, tormented dope eschews, and thereby shocks the red-nosed stickler who wants to swallow some good pickler, some rich imported booze. Wine, men once thought at meals was very important, even necessary; they had their daily toots, and diligently, at the table, poured down as much as they were able, and slumbered in their boots. But we've outgrown this silly custom, and others of the kind, and bust out, which make our fathers sick, and with no alcoholic quiver we wash down onions and fried liver with water from the creek. When we attend a big swell dinner we find that coffee is a winner, it warms us to our toes; we ask for drinks that leave us sober as are the heavens in October, and no peruna goes. And when the long drawn feast is ended we seek our coaches feeling splendid and snore throughout the night; and rise when we have had our snapper without that taste, the hue of amber, which makes the mouth a sight. When men who have exalted places against Old Booze shall turn their faces, the nation should applaud; there is no time or place or season when you can find a decent reason for drinking forty-rod.

snore throughout the night; and rise when we have had our snapper without that taste, the hue of amber, which makes the mouth a sight. When men who have exalted places against Old Booze shall turn their faces, the nation should applaud; there is no time or place or season when you can find a decent reason for drinking forty-rod.

Less Interest in Committees; Speaker's Power is Reduced

Washington, May 31.—[Special.]—Less interest has been manifested in the appointment of committees in the house than ever before. The fact that selections were practically made before the ways and means began consideration of the subject caused lack of attention. In times past construction of the committees was about the most important matter in the early part of the session. The speaker made the selection and could do as he pleased.

Under the present condition the committee cannot turn down the recommendation of a state delegation, and generally each large delegation agrees on places for the different members, makes its recommendations, and that is about all there is to it. The labor of adjusting such differences as have arisen has occupied the ways and means committee most of the time for a week past.

Enlarged Free List.
If the senate enlarges the free list and reduces rates generally the house leaders will have a very hard time in keeping their bill as against the senate bill. Reduction of rates has already gone far enough to make it plain that there is no fear on the part of the house members about radical tariff cuts. Consequently there will be a disposition to accept a reduction bill if it should pass the senate.

Underwood Interested.
Chairman Underwood is greatly interested in the pending bill which bears his name. He does not want it amended so as to have another name hooked on to it. Not only on that account, but because he believes he framed a good bill, he will fight any changes of importance which the senate may make in the measure.

If it remains the Underwood bill and is a successful tariff it may make Oscar W. Underwood president. We all remember what the McKinley bill did for its author, but it had to be repealed before its popularity put him in the president's chair.

Missouri Water.
Congressman Boelter of Missouri has been trying to have the army engineers approve his recommendations to prevent the Missouri river from changing its course in his district. He believes that much land will be overflowed if an old channel of the river should be reopened. The engineers say there is no real danger.

"That's all they know about it," declared Boelter. "I know that country. I know that old channel and the lay of the land, and in Missouri water runs down hill." But the engineers were not convinced.

Force of Example.
When William H. Taft was secretary of war he took most of his exercise on horseback. He liked golf, but his chief called it "an old woman's game," so he rode horseback. The horse got plenty of exercise. Mr. Taft became president.

And now another secretary who is not a golfer nor a tennis player nor any other kind of a time killer takes his exercise on horseback. William J. Bryan is in the saddle every evening after a hard day in the state department. Will history repeat? And is there anything in the theory of "force of example?"

Never Been Decided.
"It's a question that has never been decided and never will be decided," remarked Minority Leader Mann. "No one knows and no one can tell how far the treaty making power goes; what are its limitations as to superseding laws of congress or of states?"

The remark was caused by this discussion of what the United States can do with California when California does not want to accommodate herself to Japanese demands. Incidentally the questions raised in the discrimination in the tariff bill and the effect on treaties are involved in the remark of Mann. No one has ever been able to tell just how far the treaties go or what might happen in given cases.

Unfair to the Windmills.
One day when there had been quite a debate upon the various "mood" questions of treaties and rights of states Congressman Campbell asked: "Did you ever see such a vigorous onslaught on windmills in the house? There never were so many windmills attacked as on this occasion. It has been entirely unfair to the windmills."

It was on the same day that Charlie Adamson of Georgia remarked: "I am going to protest against this shameful waste of time." But he was sarcastic, for the house was then adjourning for three days at a time.

their fellow members on the subject of inquiring into the delings of a state. Nothing could quite illustrate the trend of the times so much as to see men like Bacon and Gallinger agreeing on state rights.

Knows Cotton.
When Senator Smith of South Carolina talks about cotton he always has listeners. He knows all about the subject. Just now he is particularly interested in the manner in which cotton is manipulated on the stock market and by pools which affect the price and give certain concerns control of the product. Senator Smith has long contended for a free and open cotton market; but, like many other products, it offers a tempting subject of speculation and is cornered and prices boosted or depressed as in all other products.

His Old Love.
Congressman Hobson of Alabama had to sacrifice an opportunity to become chairman of a committee in order to retain his place on naval affairs. He wanted a chairmanship, but he stuck to his first love, the navy. He wants to continue his fight for a general national defense plan.

Homes For Ambassadors.
For years the Republicans have been urging homes for ambassadors in foreign capitals. The Democrats have not looked upon the scheme with favor. There is something like a change in their attitude, however. But for the next four years those homes will be occupied by Democratic ambassadors. And even that will not get the entire majority. There are still many Jeffersonian Democrats in congress.

By the time his wife has finished with her interruption a man has forgotten what he originally intended to say.

The Human Procession

If William Rockefeller had been a ball player instead of an oil magnate, the fans would have dubbed him "Noisy Bill," because of his deep-seated prejudice against loquacities. The president of the Standard Oil company of New York, is the younger brother of the great John D., although not so very young at that, since he will celebrate his seventy-second birthday today. Brother William has always disliked the limelight, and usually managed to keep out of it until recently, when he was cast for the role of subpoena dodger in the stirring drama of "Jockey Island and Mr. Hyde." While his nephew, John D., believes in the efficacy of prayer, Uncle William puts his trust in human ingenuity, boundless wealth, and back doors, and managed to elude the unwelcome attentions of the sleuths for forty days and forty nights. William was a prodigious consumption merchant before he joined brother John in the oil business, and since 1865 he has been the head of the New York business, and has long been a power in the street. William has untold wealth, an acidulous disposition, the ability to remain silent in a dozen different languages, and a fondness for speculation. In most ways he is the exact opposite of brother John, and, while they agree on the desirability of annexing everything that is not nailed down, they long ago agreed to disagree on everything else. William has two sons and two daughters and five grandchildren to inherit his fortune when he is called to his reward.

In the list of speakers for the great Presbyterian Congress opening today in Toronto appears the name of the Rev. Charles W. Gordon of Winnipeg. This is the "really, truly" name of "Ralph Connor," famous throughout the English-speaking world as the author of "Black Rock," "The Sky Pilot," and other novels. The Rev. Mr. Gordon commenced his career as a missionary among the miners and lumber jacks of Western Canada, and his experiences provided the material for many thrilling tales. For nearly twenty years he has been minister of a Winnipeg church.

A number of prominent Englishmen whose fame has extended across the Atlantic will be the recipients of birthday congratulations today. The Duke of Devonshire passed his forty-fifth milestone today. He is one of the richest men in England, and owns a large part of London, several magnificent residences, and 196,000 acres of land. Lord Arthur Hugh Grosvenor, duke and heir-presumptive to the Duke of Westminster, is fifty-three today. The Duke of Westminster, who owns 600 acres in the heart of London and 30,000 acres elsewhere, lost his heir, a boy of seven, about two years ago. Col. Rt. Hon. John Edward Bernard Seely, British secretary of state for war, is forty-five today. He has been a leader in the movement for increasing Britain's aerial navy, and believes that the sky craft will play an important part in the next great war. Lord Glencorner, who, as Sir Edward Tennant, was a distinguished member of Commons, is fifty-four today. His lordship is a brother-in-law of Premier Asquith. He is enormously wealthy and a liberal contributor to the Liberal party's strong box, but of late he has embarrassed the government by his fervent advocacy of universal military service. King Alfonso and Queen Victoria, formerly Princess Elena of Great Britain, will celebrate today their seventh or "woolen" wedding anniversary.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

The Story
Of the Chocolate Tree.

Picking the Chocolate Tree Fruit.

"SIX chocolate creams supper time? Dear me!" said daddy. "That seems to me to be a good tummy."

"Oh, but they are good chocolates! Mother said so," Evelyn replied. "And they won't hurt me a bit."

"But I only had five," Jack grumbled, peering into the empty box, "and now there are none."

"But you know that the last time you ate nearly the whole box," Evelyn insisted, "and I think I ought to have more than you this time."

"Come, come," broke in daddy; "this will never do. If you begin to quarrel I shall forget what I was going to tell you."

"Very well," the children cried; "we will be very quiet. Now, please, go on. Tell us a story."

"Well, few of the little people who live in the lands where the chocolate trees grow ever see chocolate creams or caramels or have ever tasted chocolate cake or dipped a spoon into chocolate ice cream."

"The chocolate tree, you see, grows in hot countries, where most of the people are too poor to buy candies and where our kind isn't sold."

"The name of the chocolate tree is the cacao, and our chocolate is a paste made by mixing the flour formed by pounding the seeds with sugar and spices."

"The chocolate tree, as I will call it, grows in South America, the West Indies and in Mexico, so it is an American tree. It can be raised only in warm places. It takes a good while for the tree to grow old enough to bear fruit, but when it does its owner gets a great deal of money from it."

"The tree gets to be three or four times as tall as a man and is a handsome plant, looking not unlike a lilac bush."

"The fruit looks something like a big yellow cucumber, with fine red streaks running around it. The skin is tough and warty. Inside is a soft pinkish white filling that is eaten, while the large seeds are carefully picked out, washed and dried in the sun."

"Before they are used for making cocon or chocolate the seeds are first roasted, then broken so that the outside husk can be taken off and the inside ground to powder."

"These husks are what is known as cocoa shells and are used in making the nice cocoa you drink. The flour from the inside of the seeds is ground up with sugar, honey, molasses, starch, rice, flour, sago, arrowroot and spices. It is made into a paste and is formed into cakes as we buy it in the shops."

"The word chocolate is made up of the Indian name for the tree 'choco' and 'late,' their word for water."

Stomach and Liver Trouble. Mrs. M. P. Curry, P. O. Box 615, Petersburg, Ill., writes: "I have been troubled with internal catarrh since my girlhood, and was sick in bed for three months. I had pains all through me. When I was able to get up I was so weak and thin that I could hardly walk. What I ate disagreed with me. I had stomach and liver trouble, and my feet and limbs were swollen so I could scarcely drag around."

"I took Per-u-na and it has done wonders for me. My cure was a surprise to my friends, for they never expected to see me well again. I just took two bottles of Per-u-na after doctoring for five months and growing worse all the time."

Obituary

Announcement has been received here of the death of Edward B. Gaskill at his home in Hamilton, N. Y., Thursday. Mr. Gaskill, who was a retired hardware merchant, was well known to a large acquaintance in Newark. His first wife was a Newark woman, the daughter of Rev. P. N. O'Bannon, at one time located here. It was through his visits to relatives of his wife, that Mr. Gaskill cultivated his local acquaintance. He was 78 years of age and had been in ill-health for a long time. Particulars as to the funeral have not been learned here.

LICKING WILL GET AID FROM U. S. GOVERNMENT

Licking county commissioners have agreed to pledge $20,000, with a like amount from two other counties, Franklin and Muskingum, toward the fund required to secure a portion of the federal government's appropriation for highway improvement. A resolution to that effect was adopted by the board and spread upon the journal. The federal government has appropriated $500,000 and each state is offered $10,000 if it raises $20,000. With these Ohio counties furnishing $60,000, Ohio is now going to put in a bid for something like $200,000 of the appropriation, according to State highway Commissioner Marker.

"LIKE MAGIC"

New Food Makes Wonderful Changes

When a man has suffered from dyspepsia so many years that he can't remember when he had a natural appetite, and then hits on a way out of trouble he may be excused for saying "it acts like magic." When it is a simple, wholesome food instead of any one of a large number of so-called remedies in the form of drugs, he is more than ever likely to feel as though a sort of miracle has been performed. A Chicago man in the delight of restored digestion, put it in this way: "Like magic, fittingly describes the manner in which Grape-Nuts relieved me of poor digestion, coated tongue and loss of appetite, of many years standing. "I tried about every medicine that was recommended to me, without relief. Then I tried Grape-Nuts on the suggestion of a friend. By that time I had finished the fourth package, my stomach was all right, and for the past two months I have been eating with a relish, anything set before me. That is something I had been unable to do previously for years. "I am stronger than ever and I consider the effects of Grape-Nuts on a weak stomach as something really wonderful. It builds up the entire body as well as the brain and nerves." Name given by the Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. "There's a reason," and it is explained in the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

HEALTH HINTS FOR TODAY

Use of Toothbrush. The regular use of the toothbrush is necessary not only to remove the acid incrustations that eat holes in the teeth, but also to sweep away the germs of many diseases. These find the necks of the teeth an ideal nesting place. They multiply a millionfold in a few hours unless washed away, then they go down the throat, enter the lungs, the stomach, the eustachian tubes and the passages behind the nose. There they cause consumption, diphtheria, earache, catarrh, bronchitis, tonsillitis; in fact, it would be difficult to say with certainty what diseases may not arise from the germs that have grown upon the teeth. It is now considered almost certain that many cases of appendicitis have this as their origin. Hence there is no process of the toilet so important as that of brushing the teeth.

Ice Cream and Pie Social.

A pie and ice cream social will be held at Spencer Chapel or better known as Little Clay Lick church, Saturday evening, June 7. Music for the evening will be furnished by Clay Lick band. All are invited. 31-1*

George Shiras, 3d, the Host of Roosevelt in Michigan

George Shiras, 3d, son of the late justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, was the host of Colonel Roosevelt in Marquette, Mich., where the Colonel went to see Editor Newell of the Ishpeming Iron Ore for $10,000 for writing he was a drunkard.

Mr. Shiras is a naturalist, who has spent much time photographing wild animals. That, of course, made him a friend of the Colonel. He has a large library of works on natural history, and there the Colonel revelled in the evenings when he had nothing to do.

The most disagreeable people are usually those who are on good terms with themselves.

Mrs. Abigail H. Bishop, Plaintiff in New York Society Divorce Scandal

New York, May 30.—The suit of Mrs. Abigail Hancock Bishop for absolute divorce against her husband, J. C. Bishop, a millionaire banker and member of New York and Newport society, is the biggest society divorce case since the last Mrs. Vanderbilt went into court because her husband had transferred his affections. Mrs. Bishop named Mrs. J. Temple Gwathmey, wife of the former president of the New York Cotton Exchange, as the principal correspondent. There were others of less importance. But the case will rest largely on what can be proved about Mrs. Gwathmey—who, by the way, is as important in society as the Bishops—and the defendant.

It was alleged that Bishop and Mrs. Gwathmey registered a number of times at the Hotel Astor as J. C. Baer and wife of Philadelphia. Then a sensation came. It was found that some of the records of the hotel were missing—stolen, an employee of the hotel said—and were in the hands of Henry W. Taft, brother of former President Taft, counsel for Bishop. Mr. Taft admitted he had the records, which he said, were handed to him by an employee of the house. Other prominent lawyers in the case, on Mrs. Bishop's side, were William T. Jerome, former New York county district attorney, and James W. Osborne, who is an assistant district attorney, prosecuted some of the big murder cases of New York.

Birthday Calendar

IF THIS IS YOUR BIRTHDAY

Some trials await you and your best preparation will be to give some attention to your health and strength and in the acquiring of a quiet mental poise. Strife and arguments waste your time.

Those born today will be naturally careless and foolhardy. They can be made to understand the difference between this and true courage and some of them will distinguish themselves in military and other active careers.

JAPS SEND NOTE TO WASHINGTON

(Associated Press Telegram)

Tokio, May 31.—Another note from the Japanese government dealing with the questions arising out of the recent California alien land ownership legislation is to be forwarded shortly to Washington.

The idea that the United States has not said her final word is prevalent here and it is intimated in authoritative circles by inference that no other action is to be initiated yet by Japan.

The formation of a Japanese association in the United States for the purpose of co-operating with the Japanese government is greatly favored here and the object of the members of this city when it is formed will be to reach a permanent solution of the difficulty by means of a new treaty or by a change in naturalization laws.

CAPUDINE

HERE! MEN OF Moderate Hair

READ THIS!

You will often see a man who fully represents a man in almost every particular. He may have a good head, fine physique, perfect manners, an interesting personality and bear himself with the distinguished air of a gentleman. His linen is immaculate and his clothes faultless as to cut and material. But all the pleasant first impressions are ruined when you discover the collar and shoulders of his coat covered with loose hair and flakes of dandruff.

This is an indication of personal carelessness, not to say uncleanness. You feel like telling him to get a bottle of Newbro's Herpicide, and if you are a real friend to him you will tell him. This remarkable remedy would in a short time remove every trace of dandruff from his head, stop his hair from falling and prevent him from becoming bald. Bald-headed men always look old, whether they are or not.

Dandruff is due to a germ which causes the scalp to accumulate. Newbro's Herpicide, used intelligently, checks this accumulation, prevents the hair from falling out and stops that frightful itching of the scalp almost instantly. It has a most delightful odor.

Herpicide is the Original Remedy, that destroys dandruff. There is nothing in the world just like it, nothing that is "just as good."

Newbro's Herpicide in 50c and $1.00 sizes is sold by all dealers who guarantee to do all that is claimed. If you are not satisfied your money will be refunded.

Applications obtained at the good barber shops.

Send 10c in postage for a sample bottle and booklet to The Herpicide Co., Dept. 3, Detroit, Mich.

Heart Education

HERE are lots nicer girls in the world than Isabelle Howard," the pretty, young aunt was saying to her nephews.

The nephews pretended indifference. "She's not in the least worth you two boys quarreling over," went on the aunt. "She's conceited and snippy, and has a bad temper."

"How do you know," asked one nephew, beligerently? "She has thin lips and a pointed nose, and her face is all lines and angles. And whenever you see sharpness like this all over a face you may look for cutting remarks and sarcasm and flashes of temper. They are as inevitably connected as thunder and lightning."

"I have occasionally heard her spit out some sharp things," observed one of the nephews.

"And if you were with her more you would hear more of them," responded the aunt. "In the home she's probably like a prickly hedge. It isn't her fault, altogether. It is the result of ignorance."

"Ignorance!" exclaimed one of the nephews. "Why, she's one of the best educated girls in our set."

"One kind of education," corrected the aunt. "She's been taught French and music and all such things, and she's been abroad twice. No doubt she thinks herself very clever. That's the reason she's sarcastic and snippy. But she's never had any heart education."

"We're willing to give her some," chuckled the nephews. "And so are the other boys."

The aunt smiled indulgently. "You can't give her the right kind. When a girl's heart education has been neglected until she reaches Isabelle's age, she's not likely to get it except through a good deal of suffering, both for herself and those connected with her."

"The right sort of heart education," went on the aunt, "should be started when a girl is little. She should be taught to be loving, to be considerate and thoughtful, to be unselfish, and not to say unkind things. Isabelle has been taught none of these things. She lets her temper run away with her. And she is supremely satisfied with herself. Study her a bit in the light of what I have told you, and see if you do not agree with me."

"I guess you are about right," observed one of the nephews. "She certainly does seem to think she is the whole feminine works."

Then they jumped into their car and whirled away. And the aunt looked after them contentedly, knowing she had at the psychological moment, and without arousing antagonism, started them to seeing without illusion, the girl they were beginning to idealize.

The Romantic Salute.
The young lieutenant in his trim and elegant uniform saluted in the stiff and yet somehow graceful military manner a pretty matron.
"The military salute," he said, "is peculiarly appropriate to you, madam. Do you happen to know its origin?"
"No."

"Well, its origin goes back to the days of chivalry, to the tournaments of the middle ages. In those tournaments the knights, before the combat began, rode past the queen of beauty on her throne. As they caroled by her they simultaneously brought the hand to the horizontal position above the brows, then dropped it to the side again—a genuine military salute. And this they did in their chivalrous way to protect their eyes from the blinding rays of the queen of beauty's loveliness. That, madam, is the origin of the military salute, and that is why the military salute is so appropriate to one like you."—Los Angeles Times.

A Sermon on Stones.
Sam Buckalew was a lone policeman in a little town in Tennessee. His main duties were to look out for trouble in the negro part of the town down by the creek, especially on Saturday nights. Came one night a general fight in the bottom, after a dance in a cabin. The engagement, starting inside, grew too large to be accommodated indoors and continued outside. Rocks were handy, and the fracas extended. Sam Buckalew, who heard it all from a safe distance, but made no attempt to drive the enemy across the Yalu. The justice of the peace called Sam to account next day.

"Why, looky here, Tom Keel—you all's honor, I mean," Sam Buckalew protested, "them rocks was flyin' near as thick as wheat beads. Maybe they wasn't aimin' to hit me, but don't you all know rocks ain't got no eyes?"—New York Post.

Two Curious Autographs.
One of the most expensive autograph albums ever bought was that purchased by Lord Clancarty at Paris in 1831 for the sum of £1,500.

Among these autographs, all of which bear the signatures of celebrated personages, there are two which are curious because of their brevity. The first one reads:
"Mlle. Clairon has no bread. Lucien Bonaparte."
The other consists of two lines only:
"Good for 2,000 francs, payable on sight to Mlle. Clairon by the treasurer of the ministry. Chaptal."

The money was paid within the hour. These two slips of paper are witnesses to the fact that the claims of want and suffering were recognized by the French government even during the most turbulent times of its existence.—London Post.

The Conquest of Disease.
The wonderful achievements wrought by bacilli cultures and the preparation of preventive serums place modern physicians in a position surpassing that of the ancient magi or medieval alchemists and render their services to mankind more striking than the proud exploits of Alexander or Cyrus. In the campaign against virulent diseases the quiet microscopist in his study, he is a Pasteur, Flexner or Carrel, is unintentionally warring with armies the conquest of which outmatch the military feats of a Caesar or a Charlemagne.—Philadelphia Press.

How Does It Get Across?
At a certain eastern university one of the professors was conducting an examination in physiology. He asked for a description of the circulation at the extremities, meaning, of course, the capillary circulation.

The youth he called upon evidently did not know much about the matter, for he replied that the blood went down one leg and up the other.—Youth's Companion.

A Condition.
"My dear," said the bride, who had been her husband's stenographer, "there is one speech you used to make in the office which I want you never to repeat in our home."
"You alarm me, my dear. What was the speech?"
"I want you to take my dictation."—Baltimore American.

CITY WILL BUY TEAM FOR THE CENTRAL TRUCK

The city of Newark is taking Licking county and vicinity with a fine combined comb to secure a desirable team for the ladder truck at headquarters. The hunt has been conducted quietly for several days, with the belief that a more satisfactory deal could be made. The stock offered has not been satisfactory and now the city has sought newspaper publicity to bring to light some better horse flesh.

The horses must be stockily built, be well bred and full of life. They should not be more than six years old and should weigh in the neighborhood of 1,500 pounds.

Most of the animals offered have been too long in the body for the fire department uses. It has been found that the "short-combed," chunky horses stand the hard runs better than other types. Horse owners having the right type of animal will find a ready purchaser in Safety Director Wayne Collier.

BOAT RACES AT BUCKEYE LAKE

The boat races at Buckeye Lake park on Memorial Day attracted a large number of the members of the Yacht club and others interested in the sport. L. A. Sackett and D. H. Freeman in the "Windward" won the canoe race in the regatta event. Paul Horset with his "Nouad" won both the quarter and mile canoe races. The motor race was won by Dewey Luchenberg, while Guy Sackett and William M. Frisbie were the victors in the comedy duck-collecting race in their motor boat "Folly." L. A. Sackett and Frank Mooney were easy victors in the canoe tilting contest.

Buckeye Lake was thronged with visitors during the day and divided itself between the dancing pavilions and the boating.

PISTOL DUEL IS WATCHED BY A LONE WOMAN

New York, May 11.—Two mysterious street shootings occurred early today. As a result of one of them, Charles Hubbard, a prize fighter, known as "Jumbo" Wells, is dying at the New York hospital. He was shot nine times, apparently in a duel with an unknown man. A taxicab in which Hubbard, another man and a woman were riding left an all night restaurant on Broadway for a trip to Chinatown. At Thirty-eighth street the cab was stopped and the two men stepped out armed with pistols. While the woman looked on they exchanged shots until Hubbard fell. His opponent, believed to have also been wounded, got into the cab with the woman and disappeared before witnesses could call the police.

Police Patrolman William Barry early today shot and killed a man who afterward was found to be wearing a police shield. Barry said he saw the stranger shooting wildly into the air on Tenth avenue, this morning. He shot to frighten the man, but struck him above the left eye, killing him. The police state the dead man is Patrick Gallagher, a probation officer.

KUSTER COMPANY IS INCORPORATED

Two Licking county institutions were incorporated in Columbus Friday.

The Kuster Restaurant company, Newark, was incorporated for $10,000. Dora Kuster, Margaret K. Coelho, William C. Kuster are among the incorporators. A "self-service" restaurant will be opened in a few days in the Arcade Annex.

The other incorporation was that of the Kiersville Baptist church, Kiersville, incorporated by T. B. Clark and others.

A Great Musical Library.
There is no public library which contains so many works of interest to students of music as the one in Manchester, England, says the Musical Courier.

Henry Watson, who spent a lifetime in accumulating rare musical works and original scores, bequeathed the entire collection to the Manchester library on the condition that musical students, members of musical societies and all others interested should be allowed free access to it. The Manchester library is very proud of the collection and continues to add to it. Among its treasures is a volume of pieces for viola da gamba, written by English composers of the sixteenth century and the first half of the seventeenth century, and collected in 1650 for a wealthy amateur. Popular songs mentioned by Shakespeare are in this unique and most valuable volume.

Eric the Red, the Scoundrel Who May Have Caused America's Discovery

A NORSE pirate—fierce of hair and temper; shaggy, gigantic, cruel—committed a murder that led indirectly to America's discovery. Here is the story: Eric the Red was a Viking, chief of a band of sea robbers and all around ruffians, whom he held in check by a brutality even greater than their own. He was born in Norway about 950 A. D., and was the son of a Jarl, or Earl. In the intervals between his voyages of piracy he haled a group of barren farms and fed at his table a throng of hard drinking, loud voiced Vikings who had sworn allegiance to him.

Laws were few in that land, and age of violence. Human life was cheap. Yet Eric committed a murder so revolting as to shock even the hardened Norsemen. To save his own life he was forced to flee from the country. With his followers he sailed to Iceland. There he established a new home. But his stay was brief. His foodthirsty yearnings would not conform to any law, and in 984 he fled once more for his life, after a second murder.

Homeless, an outlaw, a price on his head, Eric the Red sought for headquarters far enough from civilization to make a safe abiding place for him. He and his men scoured the northern seas in their serpent-prowed galleys, until at last, after doubling Cape Farewell, they came upon a vast tract of ground covered with high green grass, on which thousands of reindeer were feeding. Here Eric landed and founded a city. He named the country "Greenland." Rumors of its whereabouts had come to him from another Viking.

Nor was Greenland the only strange country of which wandering Vikings had told Eric. These sea robbers in their restless journeys in search of plunder were often swept out of all known routes by storms. More than one survivor of such voyages had spoken of having sighted a great land far to the westward.

Eric was uncertain how long Greenland might prove a safe asylum for him, and he was ever eager to find new haunts for loot and pillage. So he decided to explore this strange westward country and establish a colony there. In the year 1000 A. D., or thereabouts, he bade his son Lief to join in the expedition.

Lief was well-nigh as fiery and brutal as his father, but he had many finer qualities as well. He was high in the service of King Olaf of Norway and was known as "The King's Guardian." His constant good fortune had also won for him the nickname of "Lief the Lucky." Like the rest of King Olaf's court, he had embraced Christianity, forswearing the heathen Norse gods and forcing his followers to do the same. Eric was furious at his son's conversion. A fierce quarrel arose between the two, but their differences were at last patched up and they made ready for their joint voyage of discovery.

As the Vikings hastened down to the waiting ships Eric rode at their head. His horse, according to the story, stumbled and threw him just as they reached the water's edge. To Eric's superstitious mind this seemed an omen of disaster. He refused to go on the expedition and sent Lief as its commander. This filled the Vikings with joy, for they hated Eric and loved his gallant son.

After a long sail westward Lief came to a gloomy, cloud-wrapped country (probably Newfoundland) and sailed southward, looking for less forbidding shores. He found them. He is supposed to have landed somewhere along the southeastern New England coast. The place seemed a paradise to these men from the bleak north. The soil was rich and verdant. Wild grapes grew everywhere. Lief, because of the multitude of grapes, called the country "Vinland," or "Wine-land."

Here he is supposed to have founded a colony before carrying back to Greenland the news of his wonderful discovery. Other Norse colonies are believed to have followed him to New England, but their fate and their very existence is shrouded in doubt.

Have Faith in the People.
Let us believe in the great mass of the people—not because they are intellectually clever, not because they are independent thinkers, but because in the long run the safest and sanest safeguards of national character are to be found not in the mental attitude of the few, but in the sound, sane feeling laid down in the fundamental character of the great mass of the nation.—Prof. George E. Vincent.

Bovina Center, N. Y. — "For six years I have not had as good health as I have now. I was very young when my first baby was born and my health was very bad after that. They told me there was no help without an operation. I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it has helped me wonderfully. I do most of my own work now and take care of my children. Mother Jones, Fresh From West Virginia Strike Fields

Washington, May 31.—When the senatorial investigation of the action of Governors Glascock and Hatfield in connection with the striking coal miners of their state begins, Mother Jones believes, revelations which will startle the country will be made. She is now in Washington urging Senator John W. Kern, the Democratic leader of the upper chamber, to push the inquiry to the limit.

Mother Jones herself spent three months as a prisoner under military rule. She said she was treated well, but she denied the right of the governor and the military authorities of the state to make her a prisoner, though she was willing, she said, to have the matters tested in the civil courts. She will be one of the main witnesses for the miners before the senatorial committee.

Mother Jones is now eighty-one. She has been agitating for fifty years. "Where is your home?" she was asked. "Wherever labor is in trouble," she answered.

HANDS CRACKING AND BLEEDING

With Eczema. Watery Blisters. Disfigured and Sore. Could Not Put Them in Water. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured.

St. Clair, Mo. — "My trouble began about fifteen years ago. It was what some claimed eczema. The form the disease worked under was a breaking out with watery blisters on my hands which would then dry and scale, and then would follow the trouble of cracking and bleeding, also itching and burning. My hands were disfigured at the time, and sore. The trouble was very annoying, and disturbed my sleep. This last February it was ever so much worse than before. I did not do all my work on account of the condition of my hands. I could not put them in water without making them worse. I tried a lot of home remedies, also salves and liniments that claimed to be a cure for the trouble, but I did not obtain a cure.

"At last I saw the advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I sent for a sample. I thought they would cure, so I sent for a thirty-cent box of Cuticura Ointment and some Cuticura Soap. A letter advised me to keep ahead with the Cuticura Soap and Ointment and they cured me completely. No trace of the trouble remains." (Signed) Mrs. Mary Taylor, May 29, 1912.

URGE NATIONS TO JOIN THE PEACE FETE

Lake Mohonk, N. Y.—At the conclusion of the international conference here to arrange for a fitting celebration of the signing of the treaty of Ghent in 1915, at which time one hundred years of peace between English speaking peoples will have been completed, the following manifesto was unanimously adopted by the conferees and is presented to the English speaking world and to those in other nations interested in the cause of universal peace:

Representatives of Great Britain, of Newfoundland, of the United States, of the Dominion of Canada, of the commonwealth of Australia and of the municipality of Ghent, having been in conference concerning an appropriate celebration of the centenary of the signing of the treaty of Ghent, which marked the end of the last international war between the British and American peoples, unite in offering to the governments and the peoples of the civilized world an earnest invitation to take part in making this celebration in every way worthy of the hundred years of peace that it commemorates.

We invite such co-operation to the end that it may be made clear and unmistakable to public opinion everywhere that the time has come when international rivalries and differences, though numerous and severe, may be settled without the carnage and the horrors of war. Although it be unreasonable to disregard the possibility of conflict arising in the future out of mutual or partial misunderstanding, yet we gratefully recognize that the chances of misunderstanding have been largely eliminated by the degree in which modern science has facilitated intercourse and accelerated communication. We are therefore encouraged to hope that the development of letters, science and the arts, of commerce, industry and finance, of mutual knowledge, trust and good feeling on the part of those who owe different allegiances and who speak different tongues may profitably absorb the energy of mankind as well as offer opportunity for the display of the noblest and finest traits of mind and of character.

Great Britain has been a colonizing nation, and the United States has drawn to the population various and powerful elements from different countries and from different flags. Therefore a century of peace between Great Britain and her dominions beyond the seas on the one hand and the United States on the other hand touches directly both the interests and the imagination of every land to which Great Britain's sons have gone as well as those of every nation from which the present day population of the United States has been drawn. Such a celebration will not only mark the close of a century of exceptional significance and importance, but it will call attention to an example and an ideal that we earnestly hope may be followed and pursued in the years to come. What nations have done nations can do.

We respectfully request his majesty's secretary of state for foreign affairs and the secretary of state of the United States to transmit this invitation through the proper official channels to the governments of the world in order that both by the participation of governments and by the co-operation of men of good will in every land this celebration may be so carried out as to mark not merely the close of 100 years of peace between English speaking peoples, but the opening of what we sincerely trust will be a fresh era of peace and good will between all the nations of the world.

Civil Service Instructions Out For Postmaster Examinations.
Washington.—The civil service commission has prepared instructions for applicants for the fourth class postmaster positions to meet the demand expected to follow President Wilson's order requiring that appointments to office paying $150 a year or more be made by competitive examinations.

The instructions as to the examinations are identical with those sent out following President Taft's order of Oct. 15, 1912, except that where the present instructions apply to applicants for all offices paying $180 a year or more, last year's instructions applied to offices paying $500 or more.

Kill 4,237 Squirrels.
Sae City, Ia.—The farmers living in the vicinity of Early held their annual squirrel hunt the other day, nearly eighty men and boys participating. At the close of the hunting the winning side was 2,310 points in the lead, and a total of 4,237 squirrels was reported the dead bodies lying in a drag wagon.

A First Class Job Demands A First Class Paint

Put Aurora paint up to your most practical painter. It will stand the severest test to which it can be subjected—in the laboratory or on the wall.

Aurora Mixed Paint

is the kind of paint practical painters mix for themselves. It's even better. The makers of Aurora paint are themselves practical painters and their facilities for scientifically grinding and mixing are so superior to those of the painter that even he cannot put up a better paint.

Aurora is a pure lead and linseed oil paint, scientifically ground, with just the proper amount of inert pigments to protect the oil and give it lasting qualities.

Put it up to the painter; we're willing to let him be the judge.

ATTORNEY GENERAL PAYS COMPLIMENT TO M. R. SCOTT.

State Attorney General Hogan has handed down the following "ruling" (opinion) concerning M. R. Scott's "Supposed Diary of President Lincoln."

"Dear Mr. Scott—I have read your book with unusual delight and take pleasure in sending you a one dollar note in payment. It is one of the most readable books I ever had and when you read it you feel that you are doing so with profit. As I perused its pages I saw Lincoln from new angles and I believe I got a better idea of the man than I ever had before."

"I do not have very much time for reading beyond what I am required to pursue in the law books and in the press to know what is going on but I became so interested in your 'Supposed Diary of President Lincoln' that I read it in bed—a practice entirely new to me."

Sincerely yours, T. S. HOGAN, Atty. Gen'l.

POLICE GUARD BLOCK AFTER GUARD IS SHOT

New York, May 31.—A cordon of 100 armed policemen kept watch all night around an entire block of Fifth avenue, between 130th and 140th streets in hope of capturing two burglars who shot Samuel R. Mills, superintendent of a Fourteenth street building when he refused to show them the quarters of a gold refiner's concern there. Mills is dying in a hospital.

The police were on the scene within a few minutes after the shooting but the burglars had disappeared. Either hiding in the building or the immediate vicinity, it was believed. A complete set of burglar tools was found near the gold refinery in which a stock of gold and platinum valued at $25,000 was kept.

First Things

The first of the great clowns of modern times and the greatest, was Joseph Grimaldi, who died in London seventy-six years ago today. Grimaldi, who originated the form of amusement that now delights millions of youthful patrons of all the "greatest shows on earth" came of a family of pantomimists, and began to act in pantomime when a mere toddler. He gained an international reputation in "Mother Goose" and other pantomimes at Covent Garden, in London. His last appearance was at Harlequin in 1828. Grimaldi died in extreme poverty, and left behind two volumes of memories, which were edited by Charles Dickens. Although his life was devoted to amusing others, Grimaldi was himself of a melancholy disposition. The story of his visit to a medical man has become a classic. Grimaldi told the physician that he was afflicted with melancholia, and the doctor advised him to go see Grimaldi the clown. "Alas," replied the unhappy patient, "I am Grimaldi."
